It is always fun to imagine what life would be like in another period of time. Have your child choose a time in the past that he or she would like to visit and write a paragraph comparing that time with the present. This activity can be varied by having your child choose a time in the future to compare with the present or a time in the past to compare with a time in the future. The emphasis in this writing activity should be on comparing two things rather than on accuracy of detail.
